WIRELESS TELECOMMUNICATIONS BUREAU SEEKS COMMENT ON MOTOROLA, INC.
REQUEST FOR INTERPRETATION OR WAIVER OF SECTION 90.267 OF THE COMMISSION'S RULES REGARDING 450-470 MHZ BAND LOW POWER OPERATIONS

WT Docket No. 10-74

Comment Date: April 19, 2010

Reply Date: May 4, 2010

On March 4, 2010, Motorola, Inc. (Motorola) filed a request for interpretation or waiver of Section 90.267 of the Commission's Rules.<sup>1</sup> Section 90.267 designates certain 450-470 MHz band frequencies for low power use. Motorola seeks a declaratory ruling that low power systems authorized pursuant to Section 90.267 are not subject to the requirement in Section 90.173(i) of the Commission's Rules of a standard five megahertz separation between paired 450-470 MHz band base and mobile frequencies.<sup>2</sup> It argues that the standard separation applies only to the "primary" frequencies in the band spaced 25 kilohertz apart, and not to "offset" frequencies between them, including the low power frequencies set forth in Section 90.267.

In the event that the rules are interpreted to require the standard five megahertz separation for low power frequencies, Motorola requests a blanket waiver of that requirement with respect to applications for low power operations that are submitted pursuant to Section 90.267. Motorola argues that a waiver would serve the public interest by promoting more effective utilization of spectrum, because it would facilitate the deployment of low power repeaters with non-standard separation to avoid the occurrence of intermodulation interference when multiple repeater cells are used within close proximity.

Commenters are requested to address the merits of the request. With respect to the waiver request, commenters should consider whether any conditions should be placed on operations with non-standard separation pursuant to a waiver, such as limitations on power or antenna height, or a restriction to indoor use.
